

A LEXINGTON INTERVIEW

Mr. Loyall Tells His Experience

The following brief account of an interview with a Lexington man four years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen:

J. C. Loyall, Houston St., Lexington, Va., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been a great help to me. My kidneys were disordered. Sometimes I suffered from a dull ache across my back, and then again a sharp, darting pain which made me hardly able to move. My arms were stiff and sore. I had heard Doan's Kidney Pills spoken of so highly that one day I got a box at B. H. Gorrell's Drug Store. They gave relief from the first. I am still using them successfully."

Mr. Loyall gave the above statement on November 25, 1907. On March 12, 1912, when he was interviewed by our representative he said: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a mighty good medicine. The statement I gave several years ago I am glad to confirm now."

SLAPSTICK
MAN

I don't care much for comedy of the up-lifting sort—

The epigram and repartee and gently-voiced retort:

I can't say that I like the jokes that leave so much to thought

And do not bump against you in the fashion that they ought.

That's why I always go to see, as often as I can

A show that guarantees at least one lumpy slapstick man.

The slapstick man! He never leaves you guessing for the point;

He sets a fellow laughing till his vertebrae unjoint.

Say, ain't it funny when he asks why chickens cross the road

And whacks it to his partner with that energetic goad?

It does me good to see him swing that slapstick like a fan,

And tell out "Swow!" He's all the goods—That funny slapstick man.

And ain't it great when he sneaks up behind his partner's back

Just when the show is getting tame, and comes down hard-kerwhack?

Then all the audience clap hands and cheer and stamp their feet.

And me? I laugh, until I might nearly fall from the seat!

Of course, the other actors do the best, perhaps, they can—

But as for me, I'd rather see a first-class slapstick man.

"The Outlook."

"What in the world made Mr. Wall-street turn on you and swear so terribly and shake his fists and grow so purple in the face and stamp his feet and carry on in that manner?" we asked of our friend who has made haste to leave the side of Mr. Wall-street.

"Hanged if I understand him," replies our friend. "I was chatting with him over the political and financial situation, and when I asked him what he thought about the outlook he went into a perfectly hysterical spell."

Answer for the Anxious.

"Ambitious" writes: "How may I ascertain the quantity of hay that will be raised on a field 367 feet 9 inches long and 253 feet 6 inches wide, with a log in the west side, where a big oak tree stands, and a strip ten feet wide running through it as a lane?"

Wait till the hay grows, then cut it, cure it, and weigh it. Ambitious. Come again, when you want information. That is what we are here for. We might give you a formula for making a preliminary calculation, but the plan we suggest is certain.

How Papa Felt.

"This," said the fond father to the dermatological expert, "seems to be a pretty big bill for the treatment you have given my daughter."

"It was a difficult treatment," explained the skin doctor. "You see, we had to remove all the cuticle from her cheeks and graft new epidermis upon them."

"Well," said the father, reaching for his check book, "I don't know which one of us you skinned the most."

Increasing the Capacity.

"We have called," said the head of the deputation of citizens, "to protest against the street car service you are giving us. Why, some of us cannot even get a strap to hang on by."

"Very well, gentlemen, I shall at once increase the service," said the affable magnate, while the hearts of the deputation leaped for joy, "by putting in more straps."

Almost as Quick.

"This here wireless telegraph seems to be a pretty good idea," said the first Kansas Farmer.

"Yep," replied the second; "they say it's about as quick as one of our cyclones, but it hasn't the carryin' powers."

Nothing in It.

"Ah," muses the eminent statesman, "tis but an empty compliment."

Muttering to himself, he gazed at the sample bottle of the new liquor that has been honored with his name.

For the bottle had carelessly been sent unfilled.

Bones as a Barometer.

The merits of bones as indicators of fair or foul weather have been vouched for by the captain of an Italian steamer carrying a cargo of bones from the South American port of Buenos Ayres to New York. When the ship was sailing toward a storm recently the skipper stated the bones creaked and moaned, and when fair weather was ahead they were silent again.

Lemons as Toilet Article.

Nearly every woman uses a lemon in her toilet preparations. For removing stains or freckles or bleaching a neck made yellow by high collars there is nothing better. Only a very little lemon is needed at one time. To keep a lemon from drying up and becoming useless place it under an ordinary glass tumbler on the toilet stand and it will not wither and dry out.

A Poor Choice.

The stork had visited at Harold's house and at the same time at the doctor's house. One day the mother and doctor were talking about their babies. The doctor said his baby was so cross. When he went Harold, aged 2½ years, said: "Mamma, isn't it funny the doctor brought us a good baby and kept a bad one for himself?"

LIVE STOCK NO-BS

It is a mistake to keep a non-descript bull simply because he cost a little money.

Hogs follow the rows and tramp down less of the rape if it is drilled instead of broadcasted.

For sheep the silage should be cut very fine. Otherwise they leave the butt sections of the stalks.

With the silo five steers can be fed as cheaply as four without. That gives you the gain of one steer free.

Aside from the feed problem, sheep cause the flock master little trouble in summer, unless we except the parasites.

As a general proposition it may be said that the sow that has pigs before she is a year old will disappoint her owner.

Clover silage makes excellent hog feed in winter. They eat every bit of it. Some waste in feeding corn silage to hogs.

When you turn your team over to a hostler at the feed barn be sure to see that they get the water, oats and hay you pay for.

In hot weather a horse should not be fed much corn. Oats and bran are much better. The more work the more feed of course.

Live stock husbandry will postpone soil depletion for a longer period of time than grain farming, but it will not prevent depletion.

Green forage must be fed with discretion and sparingly at first or profuse sweating will result and sometimes colic and weakness.

Get a pony for the boys. Mighty handy to use in running errands and to go after the cows with or to run the tread power in operating the new farm separator.

SWINGING GATE FOR SWINE

Should Be Hung Downwards With Hinges So That the Hogs Can Push Their Way Through.

A gate which will allow hogs to pass and at the same time will restrain cattle and calves, will be found convenient on any farm, says the Iowa Homestead. The illustration shows a small gate easily constructed which is hung between two posts in the lower part of the fence. Hang the gate downward with a pair of small hinges so that it will swing both ways and the hogs will soon learn to go through that way.

Swinging Hog Gate.

The Horse's Hoofs.

If the horse's hoofs are hard and inclined to be "shelly" do not let anybody put oil or grease on them, for this only clogs the hoof material, which should absorb water instead of repelling it. Such hoofs are best treated by soaking them several hours together in warm water slightly salted, or by turning out the horse at night in a pasture where he will get the hoofs wet in the dew.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 27.

WANDERINGS IN DECAPOLIS.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 7:31-37. GOLDEN TEXT—"He hath done all things well: He maketh even the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak."—Mark 7:37.

Last week we saw our Lord in the region of Tyre and Sidon dealing with the Syrophenician woman. In v. 31 (R. V.) we now see him journeying back towards the Sea of Galilee through the border of that section containing ten cities, for that is what the word Decapolis means.

I. JESUS THE HEALER (vv. 31-37). Jesus had gone north seeking rest but he "could not be hid," and now upon his return he continues to meet these sad cases which need healing, and who are brought to him by their intensely interested friends. Jesus does not need beseeching. He whose heart was touched with compassion is ready to hear the faintest cry.

This first section is rich with suggestions. Jesus takes the man apart suggesting the necessity for individual personal dealing with God. Men are not saved en masse but as separate individuals, it could not be otherwise and have a man retain his personality. To work any cure for our sins Jesus demands our individual attention. Then Jesus placed his fingers in the man's ears; suggesting the added emphasis that we must come into personal contact with God if we would be healed. We may stop to reason (Isa. 1:18) with him but our sins, that be as scarlet, will not be removed unless we come by personal, individual, experience under the blood, (Eph. 1:7).

"His blood avails for all our race,
His blood avails for me."

Moistening the man's tongue with his own saliva suggests that the source of healing is to be in Jesus' own person. Our salvation is not in the words he spoke, nor the life he lived, but the life he gave (Heb. 9:12-14).

Fellowship With God.

Jesus also looked to heaven, indicating that we must continue in fellowship with God, and also indicating his own fellowship with the Father. Jesus sighed over the wreck of sin. The son of man came to bear our sorrows and to share our griefs. (Isa. 63:9). Attention has been called to the sighs and the tears of Jesus. If our prayers were more accompanied by tears and heartfelt sighs they would be more powerful. (cf. Romans 8:26). It is equally true that if our sighing were accompanied by more prayers we would accomplish more in his kingdom.

After these preliminary and suggestive acts Jesus spoke the one word "Ephphatha"—He opened—and deaf ears were opened to words of praise and counsel and to the cry of distress. Loosed was the man's tongue to speak his word of personal testimony and to witness for his healer. Read Isaiah 32:14 and 35:5.

II. JESUS THE PROVIDER (vv. 1-10, cf. Matt. 15:32-38).

The tremendous stir Jesus caused is graphically suggested by Mark in verse one of this section. From far and near they had gathered and now at the end of the third day their small supply of food is exhausted. We are told by John (6:26, 27) why they had followed him, still they were deeply interested in him and considered him to be a prophet (John 6:14). Nevertheless Jesus was moved with a compassion then, even as now he is moved when he beholds us in our unworthiness.

No Hunger Too Great.

The compassion of Jesus is a very active principle, it does not consist of sighs and lamentations, or of investigations and condemnation of conditions. His compassion causes him to act. But the disciples are aghast at his suggestion that he feed this multitude of "about four thousand." "Whence shall one be able to fill these men with bread?" (R. V.)? On the other occasion Jesus had asked Philip, who lived in the near-by town of Bethsaida, where they might find bread; but now they are in a desert place. It may seem strange for the disciples to ask such a question. He had fed a larger number with smaller resources.

After taking stock (v. 5) Jesus commands the people to sit down. He received their seven loaves (v. 6) and broke and gave, first to the disciples, and through them to the people. Such as they had, first given to him, responding to his touch, was enough and to spare (v. 8). When we give him our all he will bless, multiply and use.

Our Golden Text (v. 37) is suggestive of a wide application in teaching this lesson. We have in this lesson two incidents as illustrations. In both we can see those principles that govern his life and ministry, viz., unvarying loyalty to God and unwearied compassion for poor, weak humanity. As has already been suggested, we also see that the methods of Jesus varied, according to the individual need and always with the unswerving purpose of glorifying God. The same lesson of careful conservation of what remained is taught as in the case of the feeding of the five thousand.
